

A CHRISTMAS Family-Friendly Feud Game

HOW TO PLAY

Before the game begins, have the host fill in a score for each answer that totals to 100.

Chocolate

23

Candy Cane

18

Each game begins with a face-off round. The host chooses a question card and invites a player from each team to try and answer the highest-ranked response to the survey question. If the player who buzzed first gets the highest-ranked response on the list then their team can choose to play or pass the question.

If the player who buzzed in first doesn't get the highest-ranked answer, the competitor gets a chance to answer and steal control. The player with the highest-ranked answer chooses to play the question or pass.

Players on the controlling team take turns guessing an answer. Each player has five seconds to answer and there is no help from their team members. If the team can guess all of the answers on the board, they win the round and all 100 points.

If they fail to answer or give an incorrect answer, they get a strike. Three strikes and the team loses control of the board and the play passes to the opposing team. The opposing team can confer and has one chance to come up with one of the remaining responses. If they guess correctly, they win all the points revealed so far. If they fail, the other team gets the points.

The team with the most points wins the game!
